

Free Online Learning through LinkedIn Learning

Thousands of courses to enhance your skills and career goals.

Montgomery County Public Libraries provides free e-learning training courses for Montgomery County employees, contractors, volunteers, and interns. Take a few minutes to discover the variety of free online courses available here.

About LinkedIn Learning

LinkedIn Learning, a program and service funded by Montgomery County Public Libraries (MCPL), offers a collection of interactive, high-quality video tutorials taught by industry experts that can be taken entirely online at your own pace. LinkedIn Learning has many structured learning paths and more than 6,000 courses to help you meet your career goals or learn a new skill. Course subject areas include: business, computer applications, finance, personal development, teaching and education, and technology. Course completion time varies; online courses can be one hour or multiple hours depending on the topic.

The Office of Human Resources, in partnership with MCPL, is pleased to announce that the online LinkedIn Learning is available at no cost to all Montgomery County employees. All that is needed is to be a MCPL library cardholder in good standing. For a list of all on-line resources, click online resources

Obtain a Digital Library Card

Employees may visit any of MCPL's 21 branches to obtain a library card or register online. Once employees have a MCPL library card, they may participate in the online LinkedIn Learning courses.

Enroll in a Course

Users can access the LinkedIn Learning courses through the MCPL website or download content to their own devices to view later. Current library card holders can view LinkedIn Learning courses here.